

MADERO CHIEFS
MEET TO CONFER
ON PEACE TERMS

Rebel Leader and Aids Plan to Have Thorough Understanding.

EACH TO COMPREHEND
DEMANDS IN DETAIL

Dr. Gomez Arrives, and Federal Commissioner Is on Way to Conference.

A cable message received here at 9 o'clock from Mexico City today stated that orders had been issued to all train dispatchers at Monterey not to run trains south of that point after today.

If this order is carried out it will tie up completely the National railroad, leaving the ports the only outlet from the interior.

EL PASO, Tex., April 30.—With all leaders of the insurrectos present, Francisco I. Madero and his lieutenants are today in conference to arrive at a thorough understanding, prior to the arrival here of Judge Carbajal, the federal peace commissioner.

Dr. Vasquez Gomez, representative of the Madero party in Washington, arrived last night and had a conference during the evening with the rebel leader and others. Again today the conference is in session, but it was announced nothing would be given out.

No Reason to Change. Madero said this morning that there was no reason for changing the peace conference to another place. Over night it was announced that perhaps the conference was to be transferred from El Paso to Saltillo, because the federal commissioner stopped over there yesterday. Madero says there have been no negotiations with that end in view, and that he is arranging here to receive Judge Carbajal. Dr. Gomez will be the peace commissioner for the insurrectos, although the rank and file of the army has not the confidence in the federal agent from Washington that Madero appears to have.

Mexico City Doubts
Success of Present
Peace Negotiations

MEXICO CITY, April 30.—Growing lack of confidence in the present peace negotiations with Madero is evident here today, due to apparent preparations of the government to resume fighting; the government's apparent unwillingness to go much further in concessions to Madero, and especially to the continuance of fighting by hands not under the control of Francisco I. Madero, Jr. Among all classes in the Capital the return of General Reyes is looked upon as assurance that the government will resume fighting against Madero, if Madero insists on extreme terms, and there are plenty of indications that while the government is rigidly observing the armistice at the front, in Mexico City preparations for further campaigning are steadily going forward.

Rebels Active. Meanwhile reports are pouring in of insurrecto activities by forces not under Madero's control. It is reported that the government has failed to get an armistice with the Figueroa forces in the Pacific state of Guerrero, and that the rebel leader said the attempt to end the insurrection by negotiating with Madero is foolish, and that it will be necessary to negotiate in each state separately. In that state an attack on Ixcuala is expected today. It is officially admitted that in the state of Puebla there are 5,000 armed rebels. An official statement tells of the defeat of 30 rebels by the Seventeenth battalion, under General Cuéllar, and of the march of the battalion to Ojizingo, where it is expected to attack the rebels today or tomorrow. Torreon is threatened, with 500 men on both sides. Alamos, Puebla, is reported to be besieged.

Over on the Pacific coast the port of San Blas, in the state of Tepic, is reported to be in the hands of the rebels, and another band is supposed to have captured Zacualpan, in the mining district of the state of Mexico.

War Minister Cosío vigorously denies that the armistice with Madero is not being observed and that Gen-

TUBERCULOSIS
DAY OBSERVED
BY CHURCHES

Washington Pastors Call Attention to "White Plague" Crusade.

SERMONS IN SOME CHURCHES TONIGHT

Principal Address by Miss Rizer, Secretary of Association at Langdon, D. C.

Washington churches today observed "Tuberculosis Day" with special attention to the campaign of the Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis against the great white plague.

The day was selected by the association, and the pastors in Washington were requested to observe it, by the local association, of which Gen. George M. Sternberg is president, and Miss Ruth Rizer is secretary.

Not all of the services in observance of the one day set apart to call attention to the campaign against tuberculosis were held this morning.

Some Services Tonight. Several churches will have addresses on the subject tonight, and yet others, acting in conference with the association, will make the matter the chief topic of other services.

The principal address made this morning was that of Miss Rizer, the secretary of the association, at Langdon, D. C. Miss Rizer related the history of the movement against tuberculosis and of the work that had been done to make systematic campaigns against it. She pointed out that ignorance was one of the chief causes why the malady was not overcome.

Carelessness Is Scored. Carelessness, Miss Rizer said, was another cause of great difficulty in combating the disease. She noted the number of deaths as significant, especially in view of the fact that many of them could have been prevented by simple means of cleanliness. She impressed upon the audience the fact that tuberculosis was not necessarily fatal.

The importance of tuberculosis by churches was emphasized by members and officers of the association and by pastors. On that account as well as because of the inexperience of giving over regular Sunday morning services to the subject, numerous talks on prevention of tuberculosis will be made during the week.

Addresses This Evening. Among the addresses to be made tonight will be one by Dr. F. Scott Avery at West Street Presbyterian Church, and one by the Rev. D. E. Wiseman, at the Colored Lutheran Church.

Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, will speak about tuberculosis and its prevention next Friday night.

JEALOUS HUSBAND
SHOTS HIS WIFE

Bride's Girl Friend Saves Her From Death in Dark Boston Street.

BOSTON, April 30.—Joseph Anderson, 35 Bremen street, East Boston, alleged to be mentally imbalanced through jealousy of his eighteen-year-old bride, Martha Anderson, fired four shots at her last night on Webster street, and was prevented from killing her by Miss Ethel Casey, a girl friend of the wife.

Mrs. Anderson's clothes caught fire from the flash of the shots, and she narrowly escaped injury from burns. She was taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital with a bullet wound in her right shoulder and another in her right breast. She is expected to recover.

Mrs. Anderson was returning from Boston, when her husband jumped from behind a stone post and fired at her. She ran into the street calling for her mother. Anderson started to run away, but he was caught and locked up charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

Teacher Elopes With High School Athlete

BOSTON, April 30.—There was surprise in Chelsea today when word was received of the marriage of Miss Anna Leslie Wells, a teacher in the Prattville school, to Kenneth Bell, a member of the senior class of the Chelsea High School and the star end of last season's football team. They eloped to Concord, N. H., during the Easter vacation. Shortly before her departure Miss Wells resigned.

Mrs. Bell said that her son will not return to school, but will remain with his bride in Plymouth, N. H. Yesterday news was received for the first time of the elopement in 1909 of Herbert White and Miss Hazel McLellan, both pupils of the Chelsea High School. White, like Bell, was an athlete.

NEGRO SUSPECT IN TURNER MURDER TO BE SWEATED TODAY

Graham, Held for Killing Woman at Lakewood, Faces Grilling by Police.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 30.—Held as a suspect, Henry Graham, a negro, is in the Toms River jail, near here, as a material witness in the shocking murder of Mrs. Charles M. Turner, whose body was found Friday noon in the pine woods on the outskirts of this town.

Talking to a reporter, the chief of police said today that Graham would be questioned at length late this afternoon, and that the officials of Ocean county hoped to learn why he suddenly disappeared after the crime became public.

No Confession Yet. So far Graham has made no confession. He is a short but powerfully built man, about thirty-five years old. His peculiar actions first led the police to pick him out as a possible witness.

The arrest of Graham followed a fifty-mile chase in the woods in Ocean and Monmouth counties. The suspect was found about three miles beyond Englishtown. His appearance told plainly of a night spent out of doors. Dry leaves were clinging to his clothes, and he bore a wild appearance.

Prosecutor Vredenburg came upon him by accident. The manager of the Burns Detective agency, the prosecutor took the suspect directly to the Toms River jail.

He said, when he was arrested, that he had gone into the woods looking for work, but he could give no definite idea as to where he expected to find it.

The negro's disappearance from his shanty in Slab alley, on Friday morning, directly after Mrs. Turner's body was found, caused the prosecutor to suspect that he could throw some light on the shocking crime.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Turner started on Wednesday afternoon to the Homestead Sanitarium with a box containing a fancy waist intended for a patient there. Her brother-in-law had invited her to drive to the sanitarium with him, but it was such a nice day that she decided to take the path through the woods.

It is known as Pine Needle walk. At the northwestern corner of these woods Graham lived with his wife, who is a cook and is employed until 9 o'clock at night in the household of an artist.

Mrs. Turner passed the house of a friend, Mrs. William Price, about 3 o'clock, and some time afterward Mrs. Price saw two white men on the same path.

Followed Mrs. Turner. However, when she passed the home of John Pierce, a quarter of an hour later, Graham was taking a drink of water from a glass furnished by the Pierses.

He saw Mrs. Turner and said: "I guess I'll run along home and get to bed before my wife gets after me. I've had pneumonia, and she might get home this afternoon."

He then started in the same direction taken by Mrs. Turner, using a small parallel lane from which he could easily see her. In his hand as he disappeared down his lane he carried a cane.

Mrs. Turner was beaten to death with a pine wood club, evidently cut a long time ago. Indications seem to show that her murderer came up from behind quietly and aimed a blow at her head, when she turned and received the blow in her face. She fled, but was caught, choked, and hurled to the ground.

DO YOU WANT

Universal and Interchangeable Transfers on Street Car Lines?

DO YOU WANT

Half-Rate Street Railway Fares for School Children?

HERE IS A WAY

To Tell Members of the New Congress Your Desires.

Do you want Congress to pass a bill requiring the street railways of Washington to issue universal, interchangeable transfers?

Do you want Congress to pass a bill requiring the street railways of Washington to sell half-fare tickets to school children?

IF YOU DO, NOW'S YOUR TIME TO SAY SO.

The Washington Times today gives you, Mr. Average Citizen, and you, Mrs. Average Citizen, a chance to express your needs and your desires to Congress.

It makes possible the recording of the will of the District in the House and the Senate. It offers to bridge the gap between the voiceless citizen and his legislator.

Are you sufficiently interested to express an opinion? Is your desire for universal, interchangeable transfers and for half fares for school children strong enough to prompt you to fill out the accompanying coupon and send it to The Washington Times?

If so, act promptly. Cut out the coupon today and bring it or mail it to The Times. The Times will transmit it to Congress.

AND CONGRESS WILL READ IT. We promise you that unqualifiedly. If you had been electing your city council these past years you would have had transfers and reduced fares for school children long ago, for you would have put into office men who would pass ordinances establishing these reforms.

The vote you are given a chance to cast through The Times is the next best thing to a vote at the polls. It will tell your city council what you want. It will be a big help in the campaign for transfers and half fares for school children.

DO IT NOW. One of the reasons Congress is not more prompt to enact legislation desired and needed by the District is the difficulty it always experiences in finding out what the District wants. Committees from the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade, and the citizens' associations frequently appear before Congressional committees and ask for certain legislation. Sometimes half a dozen different attitudes on the same subject are taken by different organizations.

Naturally, Congress does not know who to believe, nor whose word to take as representing the will of the community. This is further complicated by the fact that the District government officers frequently disagree with the civic or commercial associations as to the District's needs.

Congress cannot be guided here as it is guided in dealing with problems elsewhere—by the will of the public as expressed at the ballot box. But the public can approximate that expression by voting through the columns of a newspaper.

That's the reason The Times has thrown open its columns for the recording of public opinion on the transfer and children's fare questions. No public issues in the District today are more important. No reforms will be so profitable to the masses of the people of Washington. Everybody uses street cars, and everybody, therefore, should be interested in obtaining the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

The way to show that interest is to vote. Here's the ballot. Fill it in and send it to The Times today.

ENGINEER'S BODY IS FOUND IN WATER AT ALEXANDRIA WHARF

Robert C. Fletcher, Whose Married Life Was Unhappy, Believed Suicide.

Lying in only a few feet of water, close to the wharf between King and Prince streets, in Alexandria, the body of Robert Clarence Fletcher, an engineer, employed on the Southern railway, was found early this morning. The body had the appearance of having lain in the water for at least a week.

Whether the drowning was an accident or a suicide is not known, there being absolutely no clue to lend credence to either theory. He had not been seen by his relatives for some time, but they state that such a disappearance was not considered unusual and had expressed no anxiety at his absence.

Fletcher was married several years ago, but his married life was not happy, and the couple separated, his wife going to Washington. While it is known that he brooded considerably over his marital troubles, it was not thought that this would lead to his taking his own life. He was always known as a man of sober habits.

The body was taken to Demaine's undertaking establishment, from which place it will be shipped to Fletcher's old home in Madison county, near Culpeper, where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

He was forty-four years of age, and besides his wife is survived by a brother, R. Hamilton Fletcher, a caller in the employ of the Southern railway here.

COLUMBUS CITED AS MODEL FOR KNIGHTS

Papal Delegate in Sermon at Mass Praises Life of America's Discoverer.

Before a congregation that completely filled the Church of the Immaculate Conception, the Most Rev. Diomedo Falconio, apostolic delegate to the United States, delivered a sermon this morning in which he urged his auditors to emulate the life of Christopher Columbus. He praised the determination and progressiveness of the discoverer of America and commended the work done by the Knights of Columbus.

The mass at which Monsignor Falconio was the celebrant this morning was the annual mass for the Knights of Columbus. At the conclusion of the services, souvenirs were given. In the sanctuary were electric emblems of the order. The councils represented were Washington Council, Keane Council, Carroll Council, Spalding Council, and Potomac Council.

Monsignor Falconio spoke of the frequent communions given in the Catholic Church and the good that is done thereby.

LABOR LEADERS CONFERRING IN INDIANAPOLIS

President Gompers, Secretary Spencer, and Other Chiefs Attend.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL IS LIKELY TO MEET

Union Men Feel Crisis in Their Affairs and Propose to Defend McNamara to Limit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 30.—Indianapolis again took the center of the stage today in the McNamara dynamiting case when Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and William J. Spencer, secretary of the building trades department of the federation, arrived to attend a conference of labor leaders at the United Brotherhood of Carpenters' building.

The conference was called to consider the extradition of John J. McNamara, from Indianapolis to Los Angeles, Cal.

The meeting was the most notable in the history of organized labor in Indianapolis, being attended by representatives of a large number of national and international organizations.

Labor Leaders' Story. The circumstances surrounding McNamara's removal were told by Mr. Gompers and Secretary Spencer by the heads of international labor unions having headquarters in this city. A committee representing the central labor union also attended the conference.

It is considered probable that as a result of the conference President Gompers will call a meeting of the executive council of the Federation in Indianapolis. In addition, a meeting of the executive council of the building trades department of the Federation may be held.

Should the executive council hold a conference here it is said to be probable that the Federation will decide upon its stand in the McNamara and McManigal cases.

Mr. Gompers present the executive council was represented in today's conference by two members, President William D. Huber, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America is the other member. Two representatives of the executive council of the building trades department also were present. They were Secretary Spencer and G. M. Ryan, head of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

Crisis in Labor Affairs. The feeling among the labor men today was that the cause of union labor had reached a crisis, and believing thoroughly in the innocence of John J. McNamara they were willing to go to the limit of their resources in organizing a defense for the secretary of the Structural Iron Workers' Union.

The plans for assistance contemplate the issuance of an appeal for subscriptions to all of the local unions affiliated with the American Federation, in order that the very best local talent may be employed and all other steps taken to safeguard the rights of the defendant. The Federation's plan of defense is expected to be after the intensive of James B. McNamara as well as John J. McNamara.

Developments Expected. The presence of Detective Burns here today caused all sorts of speculation among the labor people and those who have been following the McNamara case, and it was expected that sensational developments might come at any time.

Burns said he came to Indianapolis simply for a conference with Superintendent Hyland and Captain of Detectives Holtz, and that he would be in the Claypool Hotel. Superintendent Hyland and Captain of Detectives Holtz disappeared later, and at 10 o'clock Mr. Burns, Walter Drew, and one of Mr. Burns' operatives entered a taxicab, remaining out in the auto until near noon. On their return they said their work simply consisted of conferring with local police authorities about details of the dynamiting cases.

Mr. Burns denied that there were any actual developments in the case against McNamara and McManigal. He said that the case had been "cleaned up" so far as Indianapolis is concerned, the he would go to California when he left Indianapolis this evening. Several witnesses from Indianapolis will be called to Los Angeles to testify in the case against J. J. McNamara. PROBING DEATH
WRECK OF TRAIN

Railroad and State Officials Look for Cause of Derailment.

SIX KILLED, MANY HURT AND MISSING

Excursionists From Northern New York Coming to Washington on Sightseeing Tour.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—In an effort to place the blame for the wreck at Martin's Creek, N. J., of an excursion train bearing 165 school teachers from Utica, N. Y., to Washington, D. C., which resulted in the death of six persons and injury to thirty-seven others, General Superintendent F. L. Sheppard, of the Pennsylvania railroad, today took his staff to the scene of the disaster and began a rigid investigation.

Accompanying him was W. D. McKelvy, a representative of the public utilities commission of New Jersey, invited by Mr. Sheppard to assist in determining what caused the derailment of the locomotive.

More May Die. A revised list of the victims shows that three persons were killed outright and three others died in the hospital, while thirty-seven received injuries. It is believed that no more bodies are in the wreckage, as an exhaustive search has been made, but it is feared that still more of those in the hospital will succumb to their injuries.

The corrected list of dead and injured follows: (Dead) HARRY T. WILBUR, baggage master, Philadelphia; C. M. PEBSON, conductor, Streetsboro, Ohio; WILBUR VANNY, engineer, Union, N. Y.

(Injured) NELLIE RUTHERFORD, passenger, West street, Utica, N. Y.; F. G. ALLEN (female), first reported as Katherine F. Allen, unidentified body, sex unknown.

(Dead) Wesley Armitage, Waterville, N. Y.; Katherine Baynes, 51 West Thomas street, Rome, N. Y.; Katherine Biggs, 236 South street, Utica, N. Y.

(Injured) Anna Campbell, 22 Court street, Utica, N. Y.; Florence Clarke, 22 Union avenue, Utica, N. Y.; Rose Caxon, 76 Genesee street, Utica, N. Y.; Elizabeth Carr, 88 Kemble street, Utica, N. Y.

(Injured) W. S. Cummins, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mattie B. Cass, 6 Jewett place, Utica, N. Y.; Mary E. Condon, 59 Lawrence street, Utica, N. Y.; Helen G. Farley, 132 Brinkerhoff street, Utica, N. Y.
